Why User-Generated Content (UGC) Is Changing the Game for Brands

What is UGC?

User-Generated Content (UGC) is any content — like photos, videos, reviews, or comments — created by real people, not by the brand or company. Instead of slick ads or polished marketing campaigns, UGC is the real deal — raw, authentic, and straight from the customer's perspective.

It could be:

A video of someone unboxing their new phone on YouTube.

A glowing review posted on Instagram after trying a skincare product.

A photo of someone wearing your brand's hoodie and tagging you.

This content isn't created in a boardroom — it's created in living rooms, bedrooms, cars, and coffee shops. And guess what? It's working better than ever.

Types of UGC (And Why They Work)

Let's break down the most popular types of UGC that businesses are using today:

1. Reviews & Testimonials

🗣️ What it is:

A customer shares their honest opinion — usually talking to the camera — explaining what they love about the product and why it
